

INSIGNIA

ARTISTS

ABIGAIL RAIFORD

Soprano

Lyric coloratura soprano, Abigail Raiford has earned acclaim for her "powerful, luxurious soprano voice" and her "wonderfully comic" portrayal of Elvira in Tulsa Opera's 2022 production of Rossini's L'Italiana in Algeri.

In 2025, Abigail achieved distinction as a National Finalist in the Metropolitan Opera Laffont Competition and claimed top honors as First Place winner and Audience Favorite in the D'Angelo Young Artist Vocal Competition. She made her debut at Carnegie Hall as soprano soloist in Taylor Scott Davis' Magnificat with Manhattan Concert Productions. Future appearances include the role of Lisa in La Sonnambula with Teatro Nuovo, Carmina Burana with the York Symphony Orchestra, and a company debut as The Farmer in The Seasons with Opera Philadelphia. In 2026, Abigail will return to Tulsa Opera for the prestigious Three Tulsa Sopranos President's Council event.

In 2024, Abigail won 1st Place in the Artist Division of the Camille Coloratura Awards and was awarded the Charles Maggio Award at the Shreveport Vocal Competition. Engagements included performances of Fauré's Requiem at David Geffen Hall with Manhattan Concert Productions, Mendelssohn's Lobgesang with the York Symphony, and Narcissa in Haydn's Jupiter's Journey to the Earth and a role and company debut with Teatro Nuovo as the Giulietta cover in Bellini's I Capuleti e i Montecchi. She joined the Glacier Symphony for Handel's Messiah in December.

In 2023, she was a District Winner of the Metropolitan Opera Laffont Competition (Tulsa District), received an Incentive Award from the SAS Performing Arts Company Vocal Competition, and became a finalist in the Emerging Artist Division of the MI Opera Vocal Competition.

Previously, Abigail joined Central City Opera as a Bonfils-Stanton studio artist, performing leading roles in Heggie's Two Remain (Krysia) and Die Fledermaus (Ida), and receiving the esteemed Central City Opera Guild's McGlone Award. She was also a resident and apprentice artist for multiple seasons with Sarasota Opera, where she was heard as Second Witch in Dido & Aeneas and Belinda in family performances.

INSIGNIA

ARTISTS

Abigail has won numerous competitions, including 2nd Prize in the 2021 SAS Performing Arts Company Vocal Competition, and Encouragement Awards in the Gerda Lissner International Vocal Competition and the Student Division of the inaugural Camille Coloratura Awards. She was also a grant recipient from The Career Bridges Foundation.

As a noted interpreter of Mozart's operas, Abigail's signature roles include the Queen of the Night and First Lady in Die Zauberflöte, and Despina in Così fan tutte. Other credits include Rose Maurant in Street Scene, Anicasia in La Dolorosa, and Yum-Yum in The Mikado, and Olympia in Pinocchio.

Abigail has also thrilled audiences on the concert stage, particularly in performances of Milhaud's Chansons de Ronsard with the Mannes Orchestra and John Mackey's Songs From the End of the World with the University of Tulsa Wind Ensemble. Her most recent concert appearances were with the Handel Choir of Baltimore as the soprano soloist in Messiah and with Emory University in Orff's Carmina Burana.

She earned her Master of Music degree from the Mannes School of Music under the tutelage of Amy Burton, and her Bachelor of Music degree from the University of Tulsa, where she studied with her mother, Judith Pannill Raiford.